

PUBLIC LECTURE

Software and the Law

Could the law of software really make you money instead of cost you money? Join Prof. Eben Moglen and Ms. Mishi Choudhary as they share their experience helping start-ups and free software projects realise how law can be a basis for success.

Speakers

Eben Moglen

Eben Moglen is a Professor of Law and Legal History at Columbia University Law School, and has held visiting appointments at Harvard University, Tel Aviv University and University of Virginia. He is the founder, Director-Counsel and Chairman of Software Freedom Law Center, New York. Prof. Moglen has been closely involved with the Free Software Foundation, serving as General Counsel since 1994, and as Board Member from 2000 to 2007.

Mishi Choudhary

Mishi Choudhary is the Legal Director of Software Freedom Law Center, New York, and the founding Director of SFLC.in. She was a Stone Scholar at Columbia University Law School, where she obtained her LL.M. Prior to joining SFLC, Mishi was a litigator in various chambers in India with areas of practice covering Corporate and Commercial Law, Information Technology Law, and Intellectual Property Law among others.

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH

